For immediate release

April 12, 2017

(Green Bay, WI) – Project VOTE of Brown County, WI today awarded its Voter Challenge trophies to the town of New Denmark and the village of Suamico for having the highest voter turnout percentages in their respective categories for the April 4 election.

New Denmark had a turnout of 48.5 percent of registered voters to capture the Green Division for Brown County municipalities with populations below 10,000. Suamico posted a voter turnout of 39.6 percent to win the Gold Division for larger municipalities. For each community it's the second time they have won the Voter Challenge, including the second straight Gold Division win for Suamico.

“After all of the attention on the election last fall, this election certainly didn't generate the same level of interest,” said Glen Tilot, Project VOTE of Brown County chair. “We certainly want to congratulate New Denmark and Suamico on their Voter Challenge wins. And we want to challenge everyone to get to the polls in upcoming elections. As a grassroots, nonprofit, volunteer organization, Project VOTE is hopeful and will continue to work for even greater voter participation in future elections.”
